Inglewood continues its winning ways

Peter always tells us how wonderful the weather is at home before he heads off to race in North Taranaki. Well Peter we left home today and the weather did get better as we headed south; there had been torrential rain for much of the night. Jeff mentioned on the way down that he really hoped the weather wasn't any good or else Peter would never let us hear the end of it. We arrived to a calm overcast day but by the time racing was underway the rain started and stayed that way for the entire race – thanks Jeff. Although it was wet, the conditions were pretty well perfect for racing. By the time we got to Peter's place the sun had come out, so maybe he lives in some weird micro climate.

Thought I'd just quickly mention – Rachel (along with Sandra) was at the race on time again, in fact at least 10 minutes to spare. Rachel had obviously had her warm-up for the race as she was certainly very lively and ready to race. More importantly though, a very warm welcome back to Arthur. Obviously not out walking much yet, but it was great to see your smile on your birthday. I was absolutely amazed to see him walking without crutches and not only that he got on and set up the drinks station. Way to go Arthur.

To the racing. First away today was Brian, who was given particular instructions about where to go and where to turn; strange for a man but he appeared to listen and managed to make his way round the course. Next away was Kim, followed closely by Sandra. Our very own Kim.co.nz (our petite made in NZ Kim, as opposed to that big, fat German) looked to be walking extremely well from the off; the training for the half marathon obviously paying off. Sandra looked to be coasting, but because of the style, her speed is deceptive. I started with Dennis and knew from the off it was going to be a hard day at the office. Dennis had the sense to leave me after a few K and chase down those ahead of him. Tony was very quickly into his stride and had closed the gap on me to about 20 metres after about 4K or so. Unfortunately, although that gapped stayed that way, the wheels eventually fell off and he drifted backwards. Jeff had Harry start just 30 seconds behind him and was very quickly looking at a disappearing Harry. Once Harry went past me and then Jeff, I presumed they would go through the field.

*Long as I remember the rain been comin' down
 Clouds of mystery pourin' confusion on the ground.
 Good men through the ages tryin' to find the sun,
 And I wonder still I wonder who'll stop the rain.*

Mike and Rachel started together with Rachel telling jokes and generally keeping Mike amused. Mike never really got his steam engine going while Rachel seemed to be cruising alongside of him. Everyone assumed Eric had given me a really nice red, because the way he started he was going to have no problem going through the field and made short order of Rachel and Mike, or so we thought. He got about 20 metres or so in front of them, Mike did something or said something and Rachel shot into overdrive and shot past Eric again. Meanwhile up at the front it looked like Kim.co.nz, after getting past Brian (who wins grunter of the day by a mile) was heading for glory. Not to be, Sandra caught her in the last few hundred metres and finished 15 seconds clear. Rachel managed to get through most of the field and came storming home for 3rd place. Jeff passed a tiring Harry, and even though Harry did one of his fast sprints at the end, Jeff was 4th with Harry another 2 seconds back and a fast finishing Eric only 9 seconds adrift. Eric took fastest time of 57m11s and Rachel fastest female time of 57m46s.

Well done to Sue who did an excellent 5K of 40m27s on what is a fairly slow course. The other vets either didn't start or didn't finish. The Points Trophy still has Sue with a good lead of 7 points over Marlene.

Many thanks to Peter for an excellent morning tea and to Sue for the birthday cake for Arthur and also to Gaylene for her carrot cake. Being a wise person of advancing years, I would say both cakes were equally good!
